Rise Tutoring Program

Rise helps students: (1) prepare for college-level math and science courses, (2) become independent learners, and (3) gain academic self-confidence. Program participation results in improved grades and helps tutees see college as a viable option, as well as empowers them to view themselves as future scientists and engineers.

Through tailored instruction and focused individual support, the Caltech Y is bridging race- and income-based achievement gaps and inspiring a new generation of underrepresented students to pursue careers in STEM.

From a Rise Program Parent

This message is dedicated to all the people who support the Rise Program. I have three children for which every day we fight for them to have a university degree. I just finished high school. Therefore, I do not have much knowledge of everything that my children have learned in the Rise Program. Thanks to you, my children have had several awards with high honors. They have helped them to have high self-esteem because they know they can have their university degree. Thank you very much for your support.
